

THE SPECTATOR

Little David Takes Another Sling-Shot At The Great Goliath

This piece in a small suburban paper presumes to address itself in a particular manner to Mr. Roy McLean, of the Evening Bulletin, and to Mr. Walter Annenberg, of the Philadelphia Inquirer. Its theme shall be that the facilities for making public opinion in Philadelphia are now so concentrated as to make thoughtful citizens alert as to what could happen if these newspapers start to throw their great weights around and decided to assert an influence which would not correspond with that impartial dissemination of the news which is a concomitant of the "freedom of the press."

Behold the huge franchise which each of these gentlemen possesses: a newspaper of vast circulation and without competition in their respective fields, a radio station, a television station and also each conducts important auxiliary features in the way of forums, authors' luncheons, etc. Each day they impress themselves and their viewpoints on the lives of millions of persons.

Nothing quite like this situation has ever existed in Philadelphia before and in no other place are the "news monopolies" of the same gigantic status as in the case with the Bulletin and the Inquirer. It is true that in many smaller cities only one paper is left to inform the populace and it is often heard, where such is the case, that the exclusive editor's procedure is an oppressive one and detrimental to the best estate of the community involved.

There is fault to find with Mr. Annenberg, but his departure from grace has not affected these parts in any special way and so can be discussed at another time. In the case of Mr. McLean's Bulletin, it is apparent that at the working editors are called upon to "bend back wards" to assure a newspaper, which the people will respect and patronize in ever increasing numbers. It is the kind of newspaper which fits Philadelphia like a glove, even though it lacks the editorial distinction of, say, the New York Herald-Tribune, which caters to a more restricted kind of circulation. Perhaps it is in order to believe that the Bulletin is the most valuable single newspaper investment in America and that it is not the case the present rate of progress will soon make it so, without a doubt.

Feeling that way, then, about Mr. McLean and his unique journal, it should be easy for him to realize the spirit of the protest which is prompted by what his "Our Town" department printed on May 7, 1948, regarding the episode which occurred at the Pennsylvania Museum on April 30, 1948. No experienced person can be blamed for surmising that the conductor of the column, obviously eager to take an undercover slap at the "Man from Merion," merely phoned to his friends at the Museum and asked their opinion as to what had happened. He then proceeded to print that "opinion" as the only thing worth saying and he proves that by supplying a caption which churlishly describes the affair as a "Tempest in an Art Teapot."

That, Mr. McLean, is hardly the kind of "news-clanking" which people expect in their Bulletin, even in the "gossip columns," and especially is this true when the matter has the essence of large public interest.

The fact is that the Pennsylvania Museum has been under fire for many years. The city has a tremendous investment in its treasures. It pays its director $15,000 per annum and gives him a nice home on Lemon Hill. According to stenographic reports, that director was forced to quit the rostrum, by the clamor of the audience, and his place was taken by a New York art authority whose dissertation, even according to the biased "Our Town" column, was "excellently done." The director was rather gratuitously reported by the Bulletin as "chuckling" about the incident. He did not "chuckle" when the thing occurred, but is reported as having retired in red-faced mortification after he had disqualified himself for the topic of the afternoon.

The Bulletin man also recorded that Dr. A. C. Barnes of Merion had "only" 65 Matisses, while the Museum had 360. What that is supposed to mean or prove is not made clear, but it would seem that a private individual who owned 65 of such precious paintings would have a very cogent reason for attending a lecture where the merits of the artist were being discussed. The truth could be that the real explanation for the director's boast that he had 300 of these particular paintings is the very fact that Dr. Barnes owns 65 of them, a primary index of their real merit. There is no doubt that the Museum's authorities have an awesome respect for Dr. Barnes' sagacity and there is ample evidence they do not presume to vie with him when it comes to the estimation of intrinsic art values. Incidentally, the sum-total worth of the paintings in the Barnes Foundation is said to exceed double that of the Pennsylvania Museum.

No reporters appeared to have been present at the Museum lecture. Such lectures should be held for the general public in whose behalf the extraordinary endowments were made, but there is said to be small sign that the Museum seeks any widespread interest. The time must come when something shall be decided on to give the city a larger cultural return on the many millions which are at stake.

Many of those who deal with art matters on their highest level assert that an entirely new perspective is in order if Philadelphia is to come into its own as an authentic art center of unquestioned authority and distinction. Too many places are competing for the exclusive trophies that would bring high renown to the city if the local circumstances warranted the respect which is now said to be lacking. If a committee is to be appointed, it should be selected with rare wisdom, for there is too much at issue to risk the "whitewash" that could occur if all elements of the continuous controversy were not properly represented in the impartial research which should be made. Whatever that massive structure on the Parkway cost when built, at least double the sum would be required now to reproduce it. It is far too valuable, only as an edifice, to house anything at which the finger of doubt may be pointed and one does not have to be too well-informed to be aware of the great discontent which exists, in various circles, regarding the present status of affairs.

Yes, Mr. McLean, your assertive young man might have deduced something of real value to the city and its art devotees when he heard about the capitulation of the Museum director and had proceeded to submit his information to your more discerning Editorial Council. Overlooking, or not knowing (and certainly not understanding), the proverbial and indignant attitude of advanced artists to intellectual sham, he took it on himself to speak and to phrase his comments to please those who are in the saddle and who could appear to be his back-slapping friends.

Nearly everybody reads the Bulletin, but that's not the sort of thing they expect to find in it—nor is it recalled, Mr. McLean, that they ever have before.

Township, Boro Plan Memorial Day Observances

Solemn Note to Mark Follow Parade Events; Services To

Major General Norman D. Cota, of St. George's Apartments, Ardmore, past commander of the Pennsylvania 28th Division, will deliver the principal address at Memorial Day services in Lower Merion Township.

In addition to the Township-wide services, the Borough of Narberth has scheduled an observance of its own, according to announcements from the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, which traditionally sponsors the services.

The entire week-end of May 29 to 31 will be marked by solemn observances, with most churches scheduling some memorial to the dead of three wars, and with the placing of wreaths and flowers on the graves throughout this area.

The Township observance begins with a parade, forming at 10:30 A. M. at Wyoming Ave. and Lancaster Pike, Ardmore, and traveling finally to Pennypacker Field. Participating will be American Legion Posts and Auxiliaries, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliaries, Red Cross units, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts and other service groups. Music will be provided by the bands from the Lower Merion High School, Bala-Cynwyd Junior High School and Ardmore Junior High School.

The invocation, before General Cota's address will be delivered by the Rev. J. Gillespie Armstrong, and the benediction by the Rev. M. C. Hamlin.

In Narberth the committee on arrangements is headed by Reginald Rollins, past commander of the Speakman Post, assisted by Philip Cappalonga, chairman of the parade committee; Warren O'Sullivan and James McCutcheon.

The Narberth parade will assemble at 9 A. M. on May 31, at the Community Building on Windsor Ave., and will follow a route which takes the marchers through most of the Borough.

The parade ends at 11 A. M., at the Memorial Marker at Windsor and Wynnewood Aves., where services will be held.

Among the organizations which will enter floats in the parade are the Narberth Fire Co., the Narberth Business Council, the Italian-American Club and the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club.

On Sunday, May 30, a special Memorial Day service will be held at the Narberth Presbyterian Church at 11 A. M. Members of the Speakman Post will attend in a body.

Zoning Clause Intended to Ease Parking Problem

Would Establish New Curb Line Behind Present Line

Off-street parking space for future commercial structures in Narberth will be provided if an amendment to the present zoning ordinance is passed.

The amendment was presented to Borough Council at the meeting Monday night by Sterling M. Chain, chairman of the Council Building Committee. The proposed amendment calls for deletion of a clause allowing animal hospitals in commercial zones, and addition of a clause requiring a curb line set back 20 feet from the existing curb line as shown on the Borough Plan.

Designed as a measure for providing additional parking space in the borough, the amendment provides that no new building may be erected, altered or used unless the secondary curb line is established.

The new section in the ordinance is intended by Council officials to supplement the parking meters recently installed in Narberth, in providing parking space for shoppers. Borough officials stated this week that the meters alone are not the solution to the inadequate parking situation in the Borough, and would have to be supplemented by either additional parking lots, or off-street parking facilities for each store.

Variances to the new section will be granted only by special exception after a hearing before the Board of Adjustment. Council will hold a public hearing on the proposed amendment in the near future.

Additional Space Will Facilitate Group Meetings

Work Will Be Completed In Time for Fall Activities

Plans for donating funds for alterations to the Community Building were approved by the Narberth Women's Community Club at a special meeting of the group held Tuesday morning.

The plans were discussed and approved by the entire club, and were based on blueprints of the proposed work which were presented to the club members by William P. Davies, chairman of the Borough Council Property Committee.

The plans include additional toilet facilities, a larger kitchen, a powder room, and additional storage space for the use of the Library. Estimated cost of the work is approximately $3500.

Much of the work will be done in the section of the present building adjacent to the rear of the Scout room which at present forms a bay. The bay will be extended to a depth of 30 feet.

Money for the alterations will be donated by the Club from a Building Fund set up in past years by older members of the Senior Club, by the Junior Club, and other sources. No appropriation will be received from the Borough Council.

The Club Building Fund was originally started to provide for a new club house to be erected on property now owned by the Community Club. Plans for the new building, however, have been abandoned in favor of the proposed alterations.

An official of the Community Club stated Wednesday that the money for the work was being donated in appreciation for the years the Club has been allowed to meet in and have access to the Building. The spokesman pointed out, however, that even though the money for the work was being given by the Community Club, the use of the new rooms would not be limited to club members, but would be available to all civic groups which meet there.

The work will be done this Summer, and will be completed in time for the opening of the Fall season of the Club. Mrs. Charles McCarter was named chairman of the Renovating Committee of the Community Club at the meeting Tuesday. Mrs. McCarter and her committee will work with Davies to complete arrangements for the completion of the alterations.

Funds for the new floor and lighting system, recently installed in the Clubroom were also donated by the Community Club.

THINKING OUT LOUD

Copyright 1948 by CHARLES A. WRIGHT

Women in Doorways

If this column has ever given the impression that we dislike women, we hasten to correct it. We think that women are God's sweetest, finest, most considerate creatures, who usually deserve much better treatment than they get from unappreciative men. But when we think of women in doorways, our soul is filled with pain.

What is there about a doorway that makes a woman feel that she should block it, particularly when someone else is trying to get through? We have long tried to understand this, but it seems to be one of the secrets of womanhood that is jealously guarded from all men.

Perhaps it is an instinctive survival from ancient days when the female protected the family cave while the male went out to slay wild beasts. Perhaps it represents a manifestation of the war between men and women, which has gone on through the centuries and which even the U. N. is powerless to stop.

We have asked the Little Woman, who should know the answers, but she just smiles archly and asks us why we didn't wipe our feet before we came into the house. When we insist on an answer she just declares it's all our imagination and asks us why we left the newspaper strewn all over the living room floor.

We bring up these points, not to criticize fair womanhood, but to make it clear that in creatures so nearly perfect in other ways these slight blemishes become even more noticeable.

Usually if a man comes to a doorway, he uses it in a utilitarian way. He walks through, not necessarily hurriedly, but at least purposefully, and then steps clear of the doorway so that anyone in back of him, trying to get in, or in front of him, trying to get out, can also use the doorway for the purpose which the architect intended. But no matter how quickly a woman rushes into a doorway, once she gets there she invariably stops.

Sometimes she uses the glass in the door as a mirror for fixing her face. Sometimes she merely stops to look ahead or to look back. In any case, the doorway is effectively blocked. Another thing: when she stops, she stops suddenly and without flashing of signals to whoever may be walking behind. When the inevitable collision occurs and the red-faced male who has bumped into her mumbles his apologies, she gives him that cold, haughty stare that seems to say: "I'm on to you, you fiend!"

The nation's generals, interested in devising improved road blocks for any future hostilities, should study the ways of women in doorways. For this work, a woman doesn't need to be over-stout. A little skinny woman can block a very wide doorway; what she lacks in pounds is made up in elbows. And if two women arrive together, they can tie up the approaches as well as the doorway itself. Under those circumstances, the only person who can expect to get through is another woman, who has elbows of her own.

With the talent of their sex, women can also block the progress of a man who already has passed through a doorway. Having gotten through first, the poor, innocent man may think that he is safe, but then he notes that a woman is coming through a few steps behind him. With natural chivalry, he holds the door so that it will not slam in her face, expecting that she will then put out her hand to hold the door, while he rushes to get a seat at the lunch counter. But she walks blithely through, leaving him to hold the door, and suddenly he realizes that she has brought along the reinforcements. Where originally there was but one woman, there is now a parade of women, none of whom has the strength to hold the door for herself. While the poor man looks vainly for the procession to end, the girls grab the few remaining seats.

Some women enjoy blocking revolving doors, but others scorn this as being too easy. Any woman can put a revolving door out of operation by simply pushing the door ahead of her until she gets just inside, then stopping while not quite clear of the doorway. If, then, the man in back pushes the door, he knows it will swing the lady. He also knows that she will not appreciate being swatted. He pushes the door lightly, hoping to catch her attention; he raps on the door; he says: "Pardon me, madam," but to no avail. It is conditions like these that cause men to buy their lunches at curbstone push-carts.

For a more interesting diversion, two women, somewhat plump, force themselves into a single segment of the revolving door, but after pushing the door part way discover that they are stuck. They can't get in and they can't get out, but they are so jolly, and good-natured about it that the man in back almost forgets how the door carried on the last time he returned from lunch half an hour late.

But there is no more effective blocking than that done by a woman accompanied by a little girl. The woman goes first and tells the little girl to come in the next segment. But the little girl, poor thing, is frightened, so mother stays in her segment beckoning. Finally mother angrily pushes her door forward a bit, whereupon the little girl rushes to get in the next segment and almost gets her hand caught. The kind man who rescues the little girl pushes her through, hoping to reunite her with her mother, but by that time the mother has completed the grand tour and is on the sidewalk again. The things which the kind man mutters under his breath wouldn't be fit for the little girl to hear.

We had intended continuing with a discussion of Women in Supermarkets, Women in Lines, and Women in Theatres, but these topics will have to wait. The Little Woman has called to us. She wants to discuss Men Who Never Finish Painting Their Kitchen Ceilings. Something tells us that women think men aren't perfect, either.

"Peony," by Pearl Buck, Reviewed by Ruth Edgar

Pearl Buck has chosen for her newest novel a background and a place in time which should have furnished forth a broad, rich volume, replete with drama and heavy with the overtones of conflict. What she has ended up with, however, sounds suspiciously like a Chinese soap opera.

A writer in search of a plot could hardly ask for more than these bare outlines: Peony, a bondmaid, is the mainstay in the household of Ezra ben Israel, one of the Seven Families in the northern province of Honan which has Jewish ancestry. Ezra is respected and loved by the wise and tolerant Chinese, and his position in the community is a high one. In his own house, the rites of the ancient Jewish faith are kept alive by his wife, but he himself has become Chinese in everything but fact.

He has a son, David, with whom Peony falls deeply in love. And this is where a perfectly good book begins to fall apart. She cannot marry him (of "John's Other Wife" et al), because alas, she is merely a servant. However, being omniscient and omnipotent as only the protagonists of this particular genre of novels are, she arranges a good marriage for him, presides gracefully over his household, runs his life, teaches his children, is his business counselor and confidante. When, in the good Chinese fashion, David decides that he would take her for his concubine, the girl searches her heart and knows that this would destroy all that is fine and beautiful between them. So—have you guessed it?—she enters a nunnery. Here her wisdom and goodness

Inland Touring In Japan Now OK'ed by Army

By THOMAS COOK & SON Tourists arriving at Yokohama on the Round-the-World steamers of the American President Lines are now able to make inland trips. The U. S. Army authorities have granted special permission for organized sightseeing tours to Tokyo and Kamakura.

The trips are made by autobuses, which leave the docks at Yokohama with special military police escort for traffic purposes. In Tokyo visits are made to the Shingawa Shiba Park, Iijima Park, the Imperial Palace grounds, the Art Gallery, Ueno Park, the Zoo, the famous five-story Pagoda, Honganji Temple, and numerous other places of interest in the Japanese capital. The Kamakura trip includes the Hachiman Shinto Shrine, the "Daibutsu," or giant bronze statue of Buddha, also several picturesque Japanese villages, and a tour of Yokohama.

Passengers are now able to indulge in shopping on the Yokohama pier, where booths of well-known Japanese shops are set up by special permission of the Army. Porcelains, textiles, jewelry, and other typical Japanese products are placed on sale when the steamers arrive.

The American President Line is currently maintaining Round-the-World schedules with the "SS President Monroe" and the "SS President Polk" sailing westbound around the globe. The steamers may be joined at Boston, New York, Los Angeles, or San Francisco. World cruises are now possible on either one of these ships.

Attractive young ladies are being selected to represent their respective states and cities in the Miss America Pageant here next September.

State-wide contests in Utah and Montana just closed with a blonde from the university of Utah and a brunet from Montana State University selected to come to Atlantic City. Each of the talented and beautiful girls have high hopes of winning one of the Miss America Scholarships to aid her in continuing her education. A sum of $25,000 is awarded each year to winning contestants.

During this month state finals will be held in Wyoming, Indiana and Tennessee as well as city finals in Memphis and Atlantic City. Miss Atlantic City who will be chosen in a contest here May 29 does not participate in the famous beauty competition but serves as official hostess to the visiting girls.

Since being named Miss America 1948 here last year, Barbara Jo Walker, of Memphis, has traveled throughout this country, Mexico and even visited South Africa as a representative of the young girls of America. The brunet beauty, now a student at Memphis State College, will be married next month to a young physician, a graduate of J. of T. Medical School, climaxing a romance which started back in their grammar school days.

Virginia Rankin Wed in Home Rites Friday

A ceremony at the home of the bride's father Friday evening united in marriage Mrs. Virginia Rankin, daughter of Mr. Ralph Leslie Rankin, of 318 Chestnut Ave., Narberth, and Samuel James Murray, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray, of Logan. The Rev. William McLeister, II, of Beverly Heights, Pittsburgh, officiated. Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of ice-blue sprigged organdie fashioned with a wide V neckline and ruffled bertha, short puffed sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her wide taffeta sash tied in the back to form a bustle and her matching organdie mitts ended in points over her hands. Her short veil of ice-blue maline fell from a coronet of pale blue lilacs and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and pansies. As the matron of honor and only attendant for her sister, Mrs. William McLeister, II, of Beverly Heights, Pittsburgh, was gowned in yellow sprigged organdie, the dress made with a high neckline and a tiny collar. Her sash of yellow taffeta was tied in the back to form a butterfly bow and short mitts matched her gown. She wore a natural straw bonnet tied with yellow taffeta ribbon and carried a colonial bouquet of copper roses and blue iris. The ceremony was followed by a dinner for the wedding party and at the Warwick. Mr. Murray and his bride are now honeymooning in Bermuda.

Mary Ludes, R. S. Horn Take Vows

Miss Mary Jane Ludes, daughter of Mrs. William J. Ludes, of 18 Iona Ave., Merion, became the bride of Russell S. Horn, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horn, of Philadelphia, in a pretty rainbow wedding Saturday in St. Margaret's Church, Narberth. Given in marriage by her uncle, Francis Ludes of Valley Stream, Long Island, the bride was gowned in slipper satin made with a sweet-heart neckline, tapered sleeves and a full skirt and train. Her floor-length tulle veil was arranged from a cluster of Grecian leaves of slipper satin and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies. As maid of honor for her sister Miss Gertrude Ludes wore blue marquisette over silk taffeta with a round neckline and puffed sleeves. Her matching picture hat was trimmed with blue velvet ribbon. The bridesmaids were Miss Doris Jean Ludes and Miss Margaret Mary Ludes, both sisters of the bride. They wore pale green and pink, respectively, with matching hats. All the attendants carried bouquets of red roses and yellow daisies. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the American Legion Post, Bala-Cynwyd. Mr. and Mrs. Horn are moving south to Florida on their honeymoon.

Joan Trotter To Be Married

Miss Joan Trotter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney J. Trotter, of 220 N. Narberth Ave., Narberth, will become the bride of Robert D. Narrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Y. Narrigan, of 505 Haverford Ave., Narberth, Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock in a ceremony in All Saints' Church, Wynnewood. The Rev. Dr. Gibson Bell will officiate. Miss Diane Glynn, of Haverford, will be the maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be the Misses Deborah Deacon, of Penn Valley; Jean Lillis and Ruth Shaw, of Narberth; and Patricia Conser, of Wynnewood. Richard Narrigan, of Cleveland, O., will act as best man for his brother and the ushers will be Homer Hewitt, of Wynnewood; William Walsh, of Penn Wynne; Patrick Glynn of Haverford, and Greer Heindel, of Narberth.

Bulb gardening is, perhaps, the satisfactory form of gardening for those with little time to fuss with a garden.

If you garden with Bulbs, and by Bulbs, we mean and include all the technical terms such as roots, tubers, rhizomes and corms, you can have flowers every month in the year.

The most popular and generally used Bulbs are the Spring flowering types: Crocus, Hyacinths, Daffodils, Narcissus and Tulips. These must, of course, be planted in the Fall, but Spring and Summer care is important if they are to continue blooming year after year.

As the flowers fade, the flower spikes should be cut off and all loose petals collected and destroyed. Let the leaves grow until they turn brown and then remove. The function of the leaves is to

Drexel Hill Aces Strengthen Narberth Nine for M. L. L. Race

By HARRY ELLSWORTH

Disappointed by its failure to gain the championship playoffs last year, Narberth's Main Line League baseball team has been rebuilt for the coming campaign.

Leading acquisitions include three stars from the now-defunct Drexel Hill team that finished behind Wayne for the title last year. Jack Creamy, left-handed pitcher and the league's top hurler; Frank Selby, hard-hitting outfielder; and Larry Aigeldinger, aggressive shortstop, have plugged the weakest gaps in the Narberth armor.

Frank Arnone, Albie Decker, Alie Shuckman, Tony Bonder, Charlie Becker and Bob Tabor will be back from last year's team.

Bill Sobczak has returned after a year's absence and will play first base. Arnone will move to third base and Bonder will remain at second.

Besides Creamy, Gene Davis will have Bob Henry, from Villanova, and Tabor ready for pitching chores. Charlie Schreiner, from Temple, and George Davidson, from Lafayette, will join the hurling corps when they return from college.

Manager Gene Davis has also announced the signing of Joe Irwin.

Kramer, Riggs Meet In 80th Net Match

Big Jack Kramer, 1947 world amateur tennis champion, and little Bobby Riggs, top man among the pros last year, return to Philadelphia this Friday, May 14, to play the 80th match of their "world championship" series at the Arena, 45th and Market Sts.

Riggs has been able to win only 19 matches, while Kramer has been victorious in 59 in the 78 played before they met in a return engagement in New York last Tuesday night. In their only other appearance in Philadelphia in January, Kramer won a sensational 15-13, 2-6, 7-5 victory. The program opens at 8:30 with Denny Pails, Australian champion, opposing Panchito Segura, South America's No. 1 player.

Havertown Nine Upper Darby In Opener May 24

Havertown A. A. baseballers will open their 1948 season on May 24, meeting Upper Darby at the Havertown High field in Brookline, according to Coach Allie Cornog.

All home games will be played on Monday and Wednesday evenings, beginning at 6:15 P. M. Players must be residents of the township, and the majority served under Cornog on the Havertown High baseball team not too many seasons ago.

Among the ex-Fordians are Ira Harnish, Skipper Muir, Hubert Smith, Ray Edelman, Jr., son of one of the Havertown directors; Roy (Ace) Bell, Bob Steiert, Walt Plantz, Bob Marschhausen, Bob Martin and Bud Arnold.

The pitching staff includes Smith and Harnish, who hurled for Gladwyne last season, and Charlie Gunther, ex-Narberth moundsman. Muir will handle most of the catching, aided by Bud Arnold when the latter isn't playing first base.

Both Edelman and Bell, who played for the championship Wayne IAC club last season, will play infield. Ken Keene, ex-Gladwyne third baseman, who also will play for Manoa this season, rounds out the inner cordon. Four ex-Havertown aces—Martin, Plantz, Steiert and Marschhausen—will patrol the outfield.

8 Teams Enter Boys' Club Loop

Eight teams will be in action when the Main Line Boys' Club Federation Baseball League opens on May 29. League members include Kirklyn, Ardmore Eagles, Upper Darby, Overbrook, Good Counsel of Bryn Mawr, Manoa, Drexel Hill and Bryn Mawr Cardinals.

Both East Lansdowne and Llanerch Hills have dropped out of the league. However, Philadelphia B. C., of West Philadelphia, is ready to replace any present members withdrawing.

Each team will play 21 games, with the first four finishers meeting in post-season Sloughman playoffs. League officials would like several adults to help conduct games. Phone John W. Hilligas, BA 2-3803.

Bryn Mawr Cardinals and Good Counsel nines will play home games at the Bryn Mawr Polo Field; Manoa will make use of the Veterans Park diamond, and Ardmore Eagles will be based at Ardmore "B" field.

L. Merion Oarsmen Triumph Over Hun

Lower Merion High's eight-oared varsity shell, skulled by Skippy Drelling, defeated Hun School for the second successive Saturday on choppy Lake Carnegie, winning by one length.

The Ardmore crew, which defeated Hun by 2½ lengths on its Schuylkill course the previous week, encountered a brisk head wind, but was timed in a fast 5:44. The L. M. boat included stroke, Skippy Drelling; No. 7, Bob Mehlberg; No. 6, Dick Ware; No. 5, Jim Barr; No. 4, Ed Nubickie; No. 3, Bill McKay; No. 2, Bill Shaughnessy; bow, Dick Howell; coxswain, Bill Wigginton.

Haverford School Wins Hurdle Title

Haverford School retained its Interacademic League shuttle hurdle relay title Monday, beating Penn Charter in the feature of the annual Philip Bishop Day intramural track meet at Haverford.

Running for the locals, clocked in 1:05.2, were John Scott, Nelson Dewey, John Steele and Al Lofquist. The Alphas regained the intramural title, beating the Omegas by 183½ to 132½ points.

Marks May Fall At Upper Darby

Norristown and Chester High are expected to fight it out for the Class A crown in the annual PIAA District One track championships Saturday at Upper Darby High's field—but don't be surprised if a couple Lower Merion athletes account for new District records.

Both Bill Galluie, sophomore football star, and Gene Zeiner, State gymnastics champion, smashed meet records last week in the suburban championships at Norristown. It isn't unlikely that they will repeat Saturday.

Zeiner shattered the Class A pole vault record with a leap of 12 feet 3 inches, bettering by 1¼ inches the record registered by Upper Darby's Ken Smith in 1935. Galluie tossed the javelin 177 feet 5½ inches, erasing the mark of 173 feet ½ inch made by Walt Sorko, Chester, in 1941.

Zeiner also was second in the high jump and placed third in the broad jump.

Haverford High failed to win a single first place, although Bob Beckman, Delaware County champion, was third in the 880, and Ed Long was second in the mile, followed by Larry Wolfe.

Ford, L. Merion Nines in Action

Nearing the end of their Section One campaigns, Lower Merion and Haverford High baseballers both will be in action next Monday after meeting each other today at Ardmore.

Lower Merion will play host to Abington Monday, while facing Friends Central the following Friday at Ardmore. Haverford has a Monday date with Upper Darby at Brookline, travels to Chester the following Thursday.

Lower Merion bunched two hits with a walk and error in the fifth to defeat Upper Darby, 5-3, as Bill Lutz yielded five hits. However, Gen Reeves' charges lost to Cheltenham, 4-3, in 10 innings Monday when Al Kirk and Bill Lutz both proved unable to tame the Panthers.

Haverford, meanwhile, scored a 7-3 triumph over Norristown at Brookline Monday, the Cornogmen hitting early and often.

LIGHT AT LANGHORNE

Two of the most popular automobile race drivers in the East have filed entries for the first speed program of the season at Langhorne Speedway this Sunday, May 16. They are Mark Light, of Lebanon, Pa., and Hank Rogers, of Trenton, N. J. Light is a real veteran of the raceways, with more than 15 years of competitive driving behind him.
